DEAR DUBLIN CITY FINALISTS

Huge congratulations—you’ve made it to the 2025 Dublin City Final! All the effort, late nights, teamwork, and creativity have brought you to this big moment, and tonight, it’s all about you. Your friends, family, classmates, and the whole Junk Kouture community are here to cheer you on as you rock the runway with your amazing design.

Think about how far you’ve come—from forming your team and dreaming up your idea, to building mood boards, finding materials, and bringing your creation to life. It wasn’t always easy, but you stuck with it. You did it. And that’s something to be proud of.

What you’ve made isn’t just cool—it matters. You’re making a real impact by showing the world how creative, sustainable, and powerful young people can be. You’ve proven to yourself (and everyone else) that you’ve got talent, style, and serious determination.

Tonight is your time to shine—and you’ll also be seen again on the Junk Kouture Highlights Show on Monday, May 19th at 7pm on RTÉ2 and RTÉ Player!

A big shout out to everyone who helped get you here—your teammates, teachers, family, friends, and the amazing Junk Kouture crew and partners. None of this would be possible without them.

Now go out there, enjoy every second, and celebrate what you’ve achieved. You’re not just finalists—you’re changemakers. We believe in you. And we can’t wait to see what you do next!

CHAMPIONING LOCAL SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITIES WITH JUNK KOUTURE

EUROSPAR Supermarkets Ireland is proud to return as Headline Partner of Junk Kouture Ireland for 2024/25, marking the third year of an inspiring collaboration. This ongoing partnership is a key part of EUROSPAR's commitment to responsible retailing, reflecting their core values of community support and environmental stewardship.

“EUROSPAR Supermarkets ARE driven by a strong commitment to supporting local communities and leading the way in responsible retailing,” says Claire O'Brien, Marketing Manager at EUROSPAR. “Junk Kouture has redefined the way young people view recycling and sustainability. We're proud to be part of an initiative that not only sparks creativity but also drives meaningful change.”

As part of this year's partnership, EUROSPAR was delighted to support 10 Irish teams as they brought their visionary recycled couture creations to the Junk Kouture World Final in Dublin on March 4th.

EUROSPAR also proudly sponsored the Junior Designer Award, which celebrates the fresh, bold talents shaping the future of sustainable fashion. This year's winners, Irmak and Thasmika (12 and 14) from Sunmarke School in Dubai, wowed the judges with their imaginative craftsmanship and eco-conscious vision.

Building on the success of last year, the Classroom Kouture programme made a triumphant return, engaging primary schools located near the 52 EUROSPAR Supermarkets across Ireland. This initiative brought the spirit of Junk Kouture to younger students, challenging classrooms to transform everyday waste into runway-worthy fashion, encouraging sustainability and creativity from an early age.

This year's winning creation came from the talented 6th class students at Kildare Town Educate Together National School. Their design, The Gossip, impressed with its striking structure and thoughtful theme. Crafted from newspapers, cardboard, yarn, and curtain fabric samples, the piece addressed the impact of gossip, the importance of waste reduction, and the need to save trees. The imaginative entry secured a €1,000 prize for their school.

The top four designs from Classroom Kouture 2025, including The Gossip, will be proudly displayed at the Junk Kouture Dublin City Final, inspiring attendees with their powerful messages and sustainable flair.

Through this partnership, EUROSPAR continues to champion the Junk Kouture programme at every level - supporting young designers, engaging with schools, and connecting with local communities. Their involvement brings sustainability to the heart of community life, inspiring creative action and environmental awareness across the nation.

GRASSROOTS SUSTAINABILITY

WORLD FINAL '24 HIGHLIGHTS

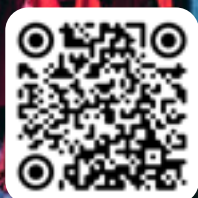

The Junk Kouture Festival of Creativity and Circularity lit up Dublin on March 3 - 4, 2025, marking the 15th anniversary of this global youth initiative in Ireland. The two-day celebration brought together over 200 students and educators from 20 nationalities, culminating in the Junk Kouture World Final on March 4 hosted at The Helix, Dublin City University.

Sixty finalist teams from Ireland, the UK, France, Italy, the USA, and the UAE showcased extraordinary couture creations crafted entirely from recycled materials, ranging from alpaca wool to window blinds. The standout design of the night, Aquacultural by Clodagh Ramsey of Wilson's Hospital School, was crowned Junk Kouture World Designer of the Year. Made from 2,000 mussel shells and weighing 32kg, the piece powerfully spotlighted sustainable food production and gender equality.

Beyond the catwalk, the festival featured immersive workshops and a guided city tour hosted by Dublin City Tours, which offered participants insights into Dublin's vibrant creative and sustainable culture. A highlight was 'The Creativity and Circularity Lab' on March 3, at the CHQ Building, focusing on growth mindset and circular entrepreneurship, with sessions led by industry experts and Junk Kouture alumni.

The designs were evaluated by a prestigious judging panel of experts including American eco-designer, climate activist, Global JK ambassador and author Maya Penn, Buying Director of Primark Sally Taylor, Parisian it-girl and champion of sustainable fashion Lise Pierron and fashion designer and founder of sustainable luxury womenswear brand SML London Stephen McLaughlin.

As Junk Kouture marked this milestone year, the Festival of Creativity and Circularity reaffirmed its mission to empower the next generation of changemakers through creativity, innovation and circular thinking.

CLAIRE GARVEY FASHION DESIGNER

Claire Garvey is a successful sustainable Irish Fashion Designer, who has been in business for over 30 years. Claire's shop can be found on Cows Lane Temple Bar and her work has been seen at The Oscars, The Emmys, X factor, Cannes Film Festival, Eurovision, Junior Eurovision, Dancing with the Stars, and New York and London Fashion week. She is a firm believer in sustainability and believes the future is teaching our next generation to care for the planet. She is delighted to be on the judging panel for Junk Kouture, and looks forward to seeing all the incredible talent.

MARIUSZ MALON DESIGNER AND JK ALUM

Mariusz Malon is a former winner of the Junk Kouture competition, with his piece Enigmatic and specialises in genderless wearable art. Malon sees things from a different perspective; making objects that look and feel aesthetically pleasing and creating unique shapes always comes first and then are applied in a fashion context. Texture is at the forefront of Malon's design development process, and he uses innovative and traditional techniques mixed with found materials to create new textures. Having an eye for objects that would make a show stopping outfit if used the right way.

ZEDA THE ARCHITECT (AKA OYINDAMOLA ANIMASHAUN) VISUAL ARTIST

Zeda the Architect aka Oyindamola Animashaun is a visual artist, stylist, director, journalist and producer based in Dublin, Ireland originally from Abeokuta, Nigeria. She has experience working on projects, shoots, fashion shows and music videos for artists, charities, brands, college societies, to name a few. Over her budding career, she has been lucky to direct, style and produce big-scale projects viewed and/or attended by diverse audiences. She was previously the fashion editor of VIP Publishing, working across Stellar, VIP and TV NOW Magazine on all fashion content such as covers, features, shoots and editorials. She has also been tapped for styling by several Irish celebrities and artists. Zeda's only desire as an artist is to make things which would make her Black and Irish 13 year old self feel seen.

HOSTS

FIONNUALA MORAN MAIN STAGE PRESENTER

Fionnuala Moran is a sustainability influencer, broadcaster, DJ & journalist. Her informative and accessible climate segments on Virgin Media's Six O'clock Show, RTÉ Radio 1, 2FM and more, encourage participation in sustainable lifestyle shifts that serve as a catalyst for increased climate action. Across her social media accounts, she celebrates sustainability in a fun way, with content about upcycling, her allotment & sustainable renovations and much more.

INDIA SASHA BACK STAGE PRESENTER

India Sasha is a passionate advocate for inclusion, a content creator known for her creativity and authenticity, and a powerful voice in the limb difference community. With a background in social media, public speaking, and disability awareness, she's built a platform that celebrates individuality and challenges perceptions — all while keeping things real, stylish, and full of energy.

DJ OIS BOSH
